SOPHS DECOY FROSH INTO FATAL ARENA

'25 Swings Tradition Over From '26 in Fight

Cane-Rush Ceded to Frosh

Combining an equality in numbers with superior cunning, the Sophs gave the class of '26 an unexpected trouncing in the annual Tie-Up, which took place in a cornfield at the foot of the Bishop's Backbone. The next morning the Frosh staged a comeback and won the Cane Rush by the score of 13-12.

The Freshmen started out bravely enough; assembling behind Bexley at 9:30, they distributed pieces of rope among their forces and intrusted themselves to the general oversight of the 'knowing' Juniors. With fearful threats on their lips they began to search the countryside for vestiges of the unfortunate Sophomores. Minstrel Shows, Freshman Out, Lineups, and Boola Boola, were all to be avenged at one fell swoop!

But Alas! The Gods of Battle had decided against them! After much tramping and many premature discoveries, the Class of '25 was found in a cornfield, huddled up behind a fence. That fence was soon disposed of and the Frosh charged them with apparent murder in their eyes, albeit, many of their number had but a faint heart for the impending battle. 'Catch as Catch Can' with nothing barred was in order; Freshman tied up Freshman; the Sophs tied up Freshman and untied each other in the grand mixup; lights from several cars added a fantastic touch to the scene of conflict. After an hour of hard fighting, the Yearlings accomplished the almost unprecedented feat of tying up all the Freshmen.

The next morning a little before eleven, a large crowd collected between the Library and Ascension. All the Upper Classmen were there; all the Faculty; Harcourt was there (properly chaperoned); everybody of any consequence in Gambier was there; all were impatient for hostilities to commence.

The Sophomores took their position at the south end of 'the lists,' a look of grim determination on their faces, (Daniel might have worn such a look before they threw him to the lions).

A few minutes later, the Freshmen under the leadership of Captain De Witt came down the path. They were rousing the echoes with that time-honored ditty, "The Sophs are gonna"

FALL FROLIC VIES WITH BIG MICHIGAN-STATE GAME

Unusually Small Dance Crowd Supports Very Good Party

Michigan-State game, or Fall Dance? That has been the point at issue for the week-end of October twentieth and twenty-first, and it was settled rather evenly between the two. The Fall Dance, given by the Seniors, came in for enough support, however, to make it a wonderful party for those who attended. October weather was never more beautiful, and certainly the affair itself was well "staged."

The entertainments commenced with the unfortunate Mt. Union game on Friday afternoon. Following that, a tea dance was given by Psi Upsilon at the Chapter house. Close on its heels followed the Formal, in Rosse Hall. As for the hall, never has it looked better than this time, through the efforts of Mr. Lorenz, the dance chairman, with the aid of a decorator from Cleveland. The music, by the Smith orchestra of Louisville, Kentucky, was not all that was hoped for at the Formal, but the fact is easily accounted for by the long day journey and the afternoon's work which preceded their night in Rosse Hall.

On Saturday, the Hill seemed to migrate to Columbus for the Michigan-State Game. Few cars were to be seen until along in the evening in time for the Informal. This time, the music was undoubtedly splendid, and 'Smiths' justified the fame which preceded them to Gambier. A number of Michigan University men took the occasion to pay Kenyon a visit, and Rosse Hall was quite filled before the evening was over.

On Sunday the great exodus of out-of-town girls and other guests began, and the college started in to regain lost sleep.

The Fall Dance is to be considered a great success. It is thought by some that in spite of the fine weather which usually prevails at this time, October is a bad month for a dance, because it brings it so close to the beginning of the year, and is in the peak of the football season. That is being proved a mistake as time goes on. This is but the fourth one, and the precedent started by the class of '20 should, and does prove a most excellent one.

Carl Jones, '13, and a guest, Mr. Johnson, both of Columbus, were on the hill Friday.

Coral Wellman, '18, and wife were in Gambier on business.

REGULAR OCTOBER ASSEMBLY UNEARTHS NOTHING BIG

Freshman Caps Standardized

To the Kenyon College Assembly goes the credit for a step that promises to affect relations of the cordial kind between Gambier townspeople and the college men. Mr. Lichtenberger, chairman of the Senior Council stated in his report that the committee was unanimously in sympathy with the suggestion presented at their first meeting by Pres. Bowman that the assembly deprive the college men as individuals of the privilege of building bon-fires at the expense of local taxpayers by vesting the conduct of this frequent celebration solely in the Senior Council.

Hereafter therefore, the preparation for bon-fires for any and all festivities will be supervised by the Senior Council as a body and according to the terms of a blanket arrangement with the mayor of the village, the people of Gambier will set out for collection debris to be used for this purpose and will cooperate in the collection thereof. Pres. Bowman stated afterwards that this move of the assembly would effect a saving for the villagers of many miles of fence and a considerable amount of money represented by porch furniture.

Secretary Van Arnam reported that petitions presented to the board of trustees at their meeting at commencement time were lost. The first asked that the Reveille assessments be placed on the term bill of each semester; the second that the Puff and Powder Club be reimbursed for wiring the stage at Rosse Hall so that their productions might be offered under respectable conditions.

The Senior Council offered a Resolution amending the Constitution: "Be it resolved that starting with the class of 1923 and continuing as a permanent institution of the assembly, the colors of the class caps shall be as follows: Class of 1923-green. Class of 1924-orange and black. Class of 1925-red. Class of 1926-purple and white. The above colors shall rotate in this same order.

Messrs. Van Arnam, Burchenal, and Ruleson became new members of the honor committee. Upperclassmen pointed to the freshmen that whatever other morals Kenyon men may have, cheating is the most despicable form and that the student body would not countenance it. Mr. Liepman was chosen as the new dormitory committeeman of Middle Hanna. Mr. Schoenhals and Mr. McIlwain were elected to

KENYON OPENS DOORS TO 250 NEW AND OLD MEN

Over 40 Living In Village

The ninety-ninth year of college had its formal opening with Evening Prayer on Wednesday, September 21, 1922. To the men just entering this was a new experience, but one they will long remember, for Evening Prayer formally started their life as Kenyon men.

The old men arrived earlier than usual this year which indicates their keen desire to once more get back on the Hill and resume their college work and activities. Everyday brought more men to college and the Hill soon took on its familiar aspect of students walking about, laughing and talking.

There are more students attending the college than ever before. The question of housing them became so acute that as the last resort, Rosse Hall was used to quarter the students that came late. The dormitories are crowded, students are living in town and Rosse Hall was being used as a dormitory. What better argument than this for a new building?

During the summer months some changes were made. The road that last year cut across the campus and passed Rosse Hall and Hanna Hall has been done away with and a new road was built which leads into the campus back of Cromwell Cottage and Hanna Hall. This is a one-way road and a big improvement over the old one.

Two professors houses are now under construction. One is on the campus behind Dr. Walton's residence and the other is opposite the home of Prof. West. These houses will be modern homes and a big step in the building program that the college is planning.

Four new professors are with us this year which is another indication of the growth of the college.

These improvements and the addition to the faculty leads us to predict that this year will be one of the best in the history of Kenyon College.

The Rev. Geo. P. Atwater, '96, rector of the Akron Episcopal Parish made a recent, and hurried visit to friends in Gambier.

James Beech, '19, and wife attended the Hiram game.

the Commons Committee and the Senior Council respectively. An arraignment of the Sophomores for shattering precedent in neglecting Freshman discipline, and criticism of the Juniors for supporting the Sophomores wound up the business of the evening.

Distinguished Preceptors Called Here to Serve

Four new Assistant Professors have been elected in the department of (a) English, (b) Economics and Business Administration, (c) Romance Languages, (d) Physics and Chemistry. The new appointments make it possible to arrange smaller divisions and expanded courses notice of which will be posted at the beginning of the college year.

Jackson B. McKinney, A. B., (Marietta), A. H. (Ohio State), became second Assistant Professor in the Department of English. Professor McKinney has done most of the graduate work necessary for a Doctor's degree at the University of Chicago and has been instructor in English at Northwestern University and at Ohio State. From 1920 to 1922 he was Professor of English at Muskingum College.

William H. Walter, B. A., M. A., LL. B. (Toronto), becomes Assistant Professor of Economics and Business Administration. After his courses in Arts and Law at Toronto Professor Walter studied for two years in the graduate school of Cornell University. He has taught in the departments of Economics at Cornell and at the University of Oklahoma. At Kenyon Professor Walter will have charge of the courses in applied Economics.

The Rev. Edward H. Young, a graduate of St. Stephen's College and of the Berkeley Divinity School, becomes Assistant Professor of Romance Languages. Mr. Young has studied three years at the Sorbonne and served during the war with the Canadian troops in Europe. He taught in the department of Romance Languages at Ohio State University and has spent the last three years in Czecho-Slovakia and in Poland.

Richard C. Lord, B. A., M. A., Ph. D. (Washington and Lee), becomes Assistant Professor of Physics and Chemistry. Professor Lord has served as a member of the Faculty at Washington and Lee and has had several years of practical experience in the field of industrial chemistry. His time will be divided about equally between the courses in Physics and the courses in Chemistry.

CROMWELL COTTAGE GREETES CONTINGENT OF NEW MEN

On the evening of Friday, October 13, President and Mrs. Peirce held a reception at Cromwell Cottage for new men living in the village. From the first, the party was destined to be a success, for how else could an optimist interpret Friday, the thirteenth? And then, to add to the festivity of the occasion, all the Harcourt girls except the Freshmen were down (proving that "birds of a feather" don't necessarily "flock together.") The names of the guests were tagged to them.

Through the medium of Dr. and Mrs. Peirce and several kind hearted wives of professors, the necessary introductions were made. After a few minutes of agreeable chatting, the hostess led the way up to the ball room. Here the principal part of the evening was spent in dancing, to the enjoyment of all. Between dances, rolling billiard balls proved to be an engaging pastime to some. Later, the guests descended to the dining room, where refreshments were served. Too soon the enjoyable reception came to an end, in order to allow the guests time to prepare their next day's recitations.

The Rev. Samuel A. B. Mercer, D. D., Ph. D. has accepted the responsible post of Dean of Bexley Hall. Dr. Mercer, for twelve years past, has been Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Literature in Western Seminary, Chicago. He has written extensively on Assyrian, Babylonian, Ethiopic, and Egyptian history and literature. He received the degree of Ph. D. from Munich university in 1910 and the degree of D. D. from Nashota House, Wisconsin, in 1917. The new Dean is just entering the prime of life and with his ecclesiastical and educational background together with his experience with young men we may expect with confidence a successful future for Bexley Hall.

The retirement of Mrs. Devol and the resignation of Miss Adams changed the Library staff. Under the new plan the Librarian and the Assistant Librarian will each give full time, student attendance being no longer necessary.

The new Librarian is Miss Eleanor M. Hickin, graduate of the University of Michigan, who has been for a number of years in library work. Miss Hickin was a member of the staff of the Grand Rapids Public Library and more recently has worked at the Library of Oberlin College. She holds the Bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and is also a graduate of that Library School.

The Assistant Librarian will be Mrs. Grannis who received her library training at the University of Illinois and who for several years past has been the Librarian at the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tennessee.

OCTOBER 30, 1922

Editor's Note. President Peirce delivered a sermon on "Traditions," on the first Sunday of the current College year. It proved so interesting to the few who heard it, that it is quoted from at length here for the benefit of a larger number. Its inspiration and sound logic cannot help but find a response in all who read it.

"And Nathan said to David, 'thou art the man.' (2 Samuel 12:7). Most of you will remember the story of how King David coveted the beautiful wife of Uriah the Hittite; how through his general in the field he had Uriah ordered to the front line of battle so that when Uriah fell into the hands of the enemy, David took Uriah's wife for his own. Such temptations have beset many other monarchs and powerful men besides David, and they have adopted some similar plan of removing inconvenient obstacles from their path. The unique feature of this story in the Bible is that someone was found, bold enough to stand up and denounce the culprit to his face. This man was Nathan, who, braving the wrath of the despotic, all-powerful, Oriental monarch, declared suddenly and dramatically, 'Thou art the man.'"

"Nathan's was one of the great heroic acts of history but it is not of his fearlessness I wish to speak, but rather his power of cutting through shams to realities and awakening the sinning David to a sense of his responsibility. No doubt David had salved his conscience with the consideration that it was the enemy who had killed Uriah, and had given himself absolution. In the same way we are constantly absolving ourselves from our sins."

"The lesson of individual responsibility that Nathan thus tried to teach is never remote and never out of date, for the security of the world depends in the last analysis on the way in which individuals conduct themselves. If society in a given city is sane and wholesome, it is because the several members of it are sane and wholesome, and help each other to remain so. Of course you see the point at which I am arriving, namely that, that the quality of a college, like the quality of any group large or small, depends upon the quality of those who compose it."

"In the small college the individual counts for more, and is more interested in the general welfare. No doubt you men are here in Kenyon rather than in a big university, because here each man has a better chance in the class room and in the college organizations. So, in the same way, each man has a larger moral responsibility here: he constitutes a larger fraction of public opinion."

"In Kenyon everyone has the chance to impress his personality upon the place and upon its traditions, and he has not only the opportunity but the duty of doing so. The small college might be the ideal miniature commonwealth where everyone's welfare and everyone's comfort are secured by everyone's good will and everyone's cooperation. Why then is the college not the ideal place in which these things might so easily, ought so inevitably, obtain? Very obviously because the individuals who compose the college are not ideal. Who are these individuals who prevent the college from realizing its high purpose and calling? You, and you, and you. 'THOU ART THE MAN.' Whatever is done here is done because it is the will of the community, is done because the individual members of the College countenance it.

"The college student will, however, often excuse himself for the foolish, or unkind, or vicious act that seems below his usual standards, by saying that he was merely following or conforming to a college tradition. Cheating in examinations was once a practice that at Kenyon, as in a good many other colleges, carried no stigma with it. But when public opinion was reformed, the abuse disappeared. Other unpraiseworthy habits will vanish in the same way when Kenyon students subject themselves also to the test of reason and individual responsibility. Like Nathan, you ought to look through outside shams to inner realities."

"Many a man goes with the current, and does not stop to reflect that the slogan, 'has always been done,' does not prove that it should always continue to be done. Many a man goes with the current and does not stop to inquire who makes the current. Who are these super-men who have composed the tune to which all the puppets dance? Who has set in motion this great machine of tradition in which you men are content to be parts of the mechanism? Who fashioned the formulas which college students are content to repeat from generation with the same satisfaction that the savage repeats his magic incantations? Whoever it was must have been men of more virile force than the men who follow like slaves in their track."

"Most men will disclaim responsibility for foolish college tradition, recognizing the folly indeed, but remaining too inert to alter things, but there are other men who will boldly tell you that the Kenyon Man is a fine type of man, and that the traditions have helped to make him so. The Kenyon Man is a fine type; no one has better reason to know it than I, but I dare to say that he IS so in spite of silly traditions. For generations, Kenyon College has been striving to teach her men sound learning, good citizenship, courtesy and decorum, patriotism, and the fear of God, and some bad Kenyon traditions have been there to impede and impair the work."

"We of the Faculty can only make regulations that will help towards the establishment of a clean, wholesome, thoughtful mode of life in Kenyon College, but you, the students, have it in your power to transform the College for good or for evil."

"I know of course that there is not a man here who would deliberately set about making the College evil, but I know equally well that here, just as in the larger outside world, some are careless, some are weak, some think it rather clever to outwit the law, some have no fixed opinions, and so it is inevitable that many blemishes should remain unless there is a general spirit of responsibility."

"Do not shirk your own individual responsibility in college matters, David Killed Uriah the Hittite, even though the physical responsibility was not his, and it is you, each one of you, who are responsible for the breaches of manners, morals, and good judgment, that may occur in Kenyon College this year. 'Thou Art The Man.'"

"You are the bar of judgment before whom your mates will be tried; the only court of opinion for whose verdict your companions care. May God in His great goodness inspire you with a sense of your responsibility, and in His great wisdom grant you the power to exercise it aright."

TO THE NEW MEN

It is highly proper that at this time a word of welcome, along with words of advice, should be extended to the men who have entered Kenyon this fall for the first time.

The older men of the college extend to you a welcome that is genuine. You have come here to absorb two things—one is the material you anticipate drawing from your books and your professors; the other is that which comes from four years of contact with men from all over the country—and which is no less valuable than the first.

Kenyon holds an enviable record among Ohio colleges for being composed of genial and hospitable men who are true gentlemen and sportsmen, under the wholesome influence of professors whose personalities are an inspiration to the man who wishes to learn.

An integral part of your training for life will be your contact with student self-government—in this you will see the foundations of preparation for a life of well directed, constructive influence for good in your community. In your division you have committeemen who with like representatives determine the policy of the student body. Look him up; get acquainted with him—he's one of the best friends you will have.

In athletic matters, your co-operation will be essential. For although Kenyon has fewer men in college than most universities have out for football, her teams owe their success to sincere and genuine sportsmanship. Treatment of the very best kind must be accorded to visiting teams. Their verdict of Kenyon has always been a plume in the purple and white caps that all of us wear. Be good hosts, then.

Kenyon is famous and unique for her singing—it is a wholesome and traditional form of pastime, and will be a source of much pleasant reflection in later life. Keep up your end of the songs—it will be of mutual benefit to you and your Alma Mater.

Don't think of chapel as a bug-bear—as a bore. Alumni tell us that the greater part of their love for Kenyon centers around the familiar, vine-clad old chapel. That is worth thinking about.

The discipline which you will receive at the hands of upperclassmen is for your personal good—to correct your faults which unknown to you, are a source of annoyance to those of us who have been here several years.

If you have brought along the family crest send it home at once, for it will prove as valuable here as would a G. A. R. convention badge. Here you are like the rest of the common clay, and a valuable lesson will be your learning to respect those of whom you have always thought as boors.

This is advice; it should help you be better Kenyon men. In conclusion—if you are a Kenyon man in every sense of the word, you are a man. Pitch in, get your hands dirty, and help old Atlas Chase maintain the same standard of manhood that educated people admire and respect in Kenyon men.

be hung!" Lining up on the north side of the field, they nervously awaited the starting gun.

The cane was laid in the center of the field. There was a few moments of nerve-racking suspense, and then, Bang! Both classes ran and threw themselves on the cane, or as near as they could get. A pile of struggling, gasping, twisting, humanity five feet high was formed. Shirt was torn from back and boot was wrenched from foot in the desperate effort to reach that cane. Many of the contestants fainted from lack of air. Six minutes of this, and, Bang! Another shot ended the rush. "Gus" King, the official referee, counted the hands on the cane and found the Frosh had won by a score of 13-12.

Which Type of Research is of Greatest Value?

A stove burns too much coal. A man familiar with the principles of combustion and heat radiation makes experiments which indicate desirable changes in design. That is research.

You want to make a ruby in a factory, a real ruby, indistinguishable by any test from the natural stone. You begin by analyzing rubies chemically and physically. Then you make rubies just as nature did. Your rubies are the result of research—another type of research.

While melting up your chemicals and experimenting with high temperatures, you begin to wonder how hot the earth must have been millions of years ago, and what were the forces at play that made this planet what it is. Your investigation leads you far from rubies and causes you to formulate theories to explain how the earth, how the whole solar system was created. That would be research of a still different type.

Research of all three types is conducted in the laboratories of the General Electric Company. But it is the third type—pioneering into the unknown—that means most in the long run, even though undertaken with no practical benefit in view.

For example, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are exploring matter with X-rays in order to discover not only how the atoms in different substances are arranged but how the atoms themselves are built up. The more you know about a substance, the more you can do with it. This work may enable scientists to answer more definitely the question: Why is iron magnetic? Then the electrical industry will take a greater step forward than can be made in a century of experimenting with existing electrical apparatus.

You can add wings and stories to an old house. But to build a new house, you must begin with the foundation.

PUFF AND POWDER PROSPECTS LOOKING WELL

Bookings Now Being Made For Best Ever

The forthcoming production of the Puff and Powder Club is fast being put under way. The tryouts have been practically completed and rehearsals will start sometime this week under the directorship of Donald Reid, '23.

The libretto, which is the work of J. G. Loofbourrow, ex-'23, is almost completed. L. Melyne Latta, ex-'23, has again written the musical score and it is assured that his successes of the past three seasons will be repeated.

The Christmas trip this year will be the longest yet attempted, lasting approximately three weeks. Manager Hopple has arranged for performances in the following cities: Mt. Vernon, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, Cincinnati, Greenville, Piqua, Lima, Fostoria, Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Norwalk, Akron, Cleveland, Ashtabula, Canton, Massillon and Mansfield.

NEW CLASS OFFICERS

The class elections for this year have been held. In the Senior Class, A. C. Lichtenberger is president, M. D. Campbell is secretary, and M. C. McCafferty is treasurer. In the Junior Class, Warren Rusk is president, Howard Allen is vice-president, Charles Greaves is secretary, and Seitz is treasurer. The Sophomores elected Bob Harris president, Benolken vice-president, Wade secretary, and Corns treasurer.

NEW MEN ELECTED TO SCIENCE CLUB

Two meetings of the Science Club have so far been held, being mostly devoted to the election of new members to swell the ranks. The applications of Messrs. McCafferty, McFadden, Rusk, W. J., Messenger, Greaves, C. H., Sturgis, Gorsuch, Cornelius, Torrance, Campbell, and Williams H. have been accepted.

For the current year the Club has for its officers S. B. Small as president, and W. E. Crofut secretary.

Alton Wade, '25, the husky lineman, sustained a broken ankle in the Oberlin game, and has not returned from Akron, where he is in "blighty." He is out for the season, of course, and meanwhile, has the best wishes of the College.

INTRODUCING FRIEND GUS

We take this means of introducing to the alumni of Kenyon college our new coach, Gus King. Gus hails from Dallas, Texas where he received his first football training at Oakcliffe High School. Later he entered the University of Texas and held down the end berth for two years.

After leaving the Officers Training Camp at Louisville, Kentucky in 1919, he entered Center College where he received the training that made him, as Moran says "one of the best offensive and open field players of the country."

Last year Gus coached the freshman team at Centre and it was largely through the efforts of Kenyon's alumni in Cincinnati that we were able to get him for this year. He is a hard worker and his efforts are bringing results for Kenyon, who now has, according to one alumnus, a team that looks like those of 1908-09.

The librarian wishes to call the attention of all students to the new ruling which allows books from the class reference collection to be taken from the library building for over-night use. The books which members of the faculty have placed on the shelves of Norton Hall for the use of their classes may be taken out at 9:30 p. m. after signing for them at the desk. The books must be returned by 8:15 the next morning in order that they may be available for the whole class during the time that the library is open. In order to emphasize the need for a prompt return of these books, a fine of 25 cents will be charged for books not returned on time, and 25 cents for each additional hour of delay.

This arrangement is for the purpose of making the books accessible at all times to those who are ready to use them, and in the hope that it will give the students in the larger classes a better opportunity to cover the assignment.

The Rev. Charles E. Byrer, D. D., Bexley, 1900 has taken up his duties as Professor of Church History and Ecclesiastical Polity at Bexley Hall. Dr. Byrer took his Bachelor degree at Otterbein and graduated from Bexley Hall. Dr. Byrer is well known as a writer and scholar. For fifteen years he has been Examining Chaplain of the Diocese of Southern Ohio and for nine years President of the Standing Committee. We all wish him success in his latest undertaking.

FOOTBALL TO DATE

KENYON GETS IN A RUT

Oberlin Too Much For Her. Hundreds of Alumni and Students Watch Defeat

Kenyon went up to Oberlin for her first conference game of the season and returned a sadder and wiser team. Oberlin had a fast, hard-hitting outfit and this unexpected speed coupled with the fact that the purple team somehow or other couldn't get going resulted in an 18-0 victory for the big school. Oberlin played the better football and deserved to win but if Kenyon could only have got started there would have been a different story to tell. As it was, the Gambier team was in a slump from which it must soon recover.

The first quarter was uneventful, both teams feeling the other out. In the second stanza Oberlin opened up, Farmin going over on a cross-buck. Shortly after this Winters a tackle, pulled in a pass and made it count. Madden blocked both of Weber's attempts to kick goal. Kenyon showed little offensive power in this half but when their line was threatened they braced and held four downs, showing the stubborn fight that has always characterized Kenyon teams. Kenyon 0, Oberlin 12.

In the third quarter, Oberlin completed passes for twenty-five yards and then worked one more, Weber to Rickards, resulting in another touchdown. The try for point again failed. Kenyon's secondary defence tightened at this point and the rest of the game was an even break, Oberlin being unable to gain, Kenyon playing defensive football.

Madden starred for Kenyon on the defense and had Harris had a castiron constitution he would have scored, as time and again he ripped up the Oberlin line for gains but in so doing he suffered minor injuries. Weber, Winters, and Wood were the scintillating performers for the Crimson and Gold. Kenyon 0, Oberlin 18.

KENYON STEPS OUT IN COME BACK FROM OBERLIN SLUMP

28-6 Score Rings the Bell

The big purple team played real football for the first time this year in the Hiram game, consequently the visitors didn't have a chance, and were thrashed to a 28-6 tune. In the Antioch game the team encountered no real opposition, Oberlin was the scene of a slump which eventually takes its toll from every team, but when Hiram presented herself, it was then, and then only that Kenyon showed what she is capable of doing.

Hiram came down with a fast, husky team and introduced herself by taking advantage of a fumble by Kenyon in the first play, and scored a lone touchdown. She failed to make her try for point. Kenyon soon reciprocated as the visitors made a similar fumble, and big Bob Harris galloped over the line for Kenyon's first score. Not satisfied with this, he made a beautiful drop-kick good for an additional point, and thus the score stood at the end of the half, Kenyon 7, Hiram 6.

In the second half the purple backs really found themselves, and Alexander and Dailey ripped up the opposition, making first down time and again. Alexander couldn't be stopped and soon went over for the second touchdown, Harris again making a drop-kick good for the extra point. Soon after this Lou Madden, on a tackle back formation, tore through Hiram for another marker and Harris demonstrated that the third time was a charm in completing another kick. Coach King then ran in another team leaving Gorsuch of the original outfit in charge, as Captain Stock had been forced to leave the game in the first half because of a bad foot. Johnny soon proved that the confidence was not misplaced and directed seven more points towards the Kenyon cause.

Albl, Votaw, and Woosely starred on the defence, and these men were the main reason why the up-staters only scored one touchdown. Harris, Alexander, Dailey, and Madden composed a scoring machine that could not be stopped, as the score will testify. Hiram presented a formidable safety-man in their quarter-back Montcastle, this little man saved his team from having two more touchdowns scored against them. Kenyon 28, Hiram 6.

KENYON HAS AN OFF DAY

Kenyon met her second defeat of the season, at the hands of Mt. Union in a ragged and pepleless game, Friday, October the twentieth on Benson Field.

Neither team played as it was capable of doing, and hence the lack of dash that made the contest seem slow and spiritless. Kenyon presented a crippled line-up, and this probably accounts for the character of football played, but at times even this battered team showed traces of real form, notably the iron defense on Mt. Union's yard and one-foot lines in the first period. However, there was little in the game that can be remembered and set down. The defensive work of Captain Stock and the open field running of the diminutive Sommerville alone stood out.

There is still time for Kenyon to retrieve and win the remaining games scheduled, hard as they may seem, but a much better brand of football must and undoubtedly will be displayed in order to do it.

The line-up.
